EARTHJUSTICE
Because the earth needs a good lawyer

Sure, there are laws on the books designed to protect our children and communities from pollution. But those laws are useless if they are not enforced.

That's where Earthjustice comes in. We're a nonprofit law firm dedicated to upholding the laws that safeguard our environment, wildlife, and public health. Since 1971, Earthjustice has protected millions of acres of land, hundreds of different species, and dozens of communities. All without charge.

Visit our website and see what we're doing to keep our environment safe for all types of wild creatures. Including the screaming, tag-playing ones in your own backyard.
