

WE'RE HELPING OUR CLIENTS PROTECT THEIR MOTHER

On the Path to Wilderness Protection

The Great Old Broads for Wilderness explore the spectacular backcountry of Utah the old-fashioned way – one step at a time. “We’re a bunch of little old grandmas who have no trouble getting into the wilderness on our own two feet,” they say.

Unfortunately, 94 percent of Utah’s public lands, including wilderness areas, are open to monster trucks, all-terrain vehicles and dirt bikes, which leave lasting scars on fragile desert landscapes.

The Great Old Broads aren’t just sightseers. They work hard to protect our public lands. When they need a good lawyer, they turn to Earthjustice.

Earthjustice provides free legal services to the Great Old Broads, the Southern Utah Wilderness Alliance, and dozens of other community and environmental groups working to ensure that America’s public lands don’t become a freeway.
